New names for neighbourhood policing teams

Terms for Neighbourhood Policing officers and teams are changing - read on for details Following consultation between Essex Police Authority and Chief Officers, the following changes will take place from Monday, June 28:

- Neighbourhood specialist officers (NSOs) will become neighbourhood constables
- Neighbourhood Policing sergeants will become neighbourhood sergeants
- Neighbourhood Policing inspectors will become neighbourhood inspectors
- Neighbourhood support teams will be changing their names to response teams

Neighbourhood Policing pages on the Essex Police website www.essex.police.uk and ORIGIN HR will be updated automatically in the coming months, while posters and stationery will be updated automatically when new stocks are required.

ACC Sue Harrison, responsible for Territorial Policing, says: "Listening to feedback from the public we believe these names are easier to understand and remember. I want to encourage all officers and staff to start using them now."

And Essex Police Authority chairman Robert Chambers adds: "By having this new title the public will be able to clearly recognise what their local officer is and what he or she does.

"We are going back to traditional methods, by using terms like constable we are cutting out phrases that the public may not know. We hope that this will make our neighbourhood policing even more successful."

If you see any suspicious or unusual activity around your neighbourhood or have any information which you think might be of help, please call Essex Police on 0300 333 4444.
